“ Frank was known and called Jr. by his family, and was my only brother. With 6 sister's (2 now deceased) we felt he was spoiled since he never had to do any housework (smile) . We gave him a hard time(with love) as a child till he grew taller than all of us. As an adult he seldom took my advice even when he asked for it he just had to do it his way. He sometimes wandered off the straight path and took a walk on the wild side and suffered the results but just smiled and kept going. Anyone who knew him was aware that the day his daughter was born she became the love of his life. He called her BOO-BOO and tried never to let a day go by without seeing and or talking to her. We did not always agree but I learned to love and live with him according to knowledge since he was not going to change. He could be kind and generous but also hot headed at times. He was just Jr. On Monday November 26th when family and friends where called in to the ICU unit I was blessed to meet some of his close friends. Bubba and his fiancé, his wife's Uncle Jake, and close friend Fat Baby. We laughed and went down memory lane with stories about Jr. and I felt the love they each had for him which made them just as much a part of his family as I was. We all where there when the machines stopped and let us known it was our final good-by. I will miss him but will hold on to the precious memories made in the 57 years he was a part of my life. GOD BLESS and REST IN PEACE JR. Love Janice.
