“ We remember Ronnie, our high school classmate and friend, as a fun loving and kindhearted person. He greeted everyone with a warm smile which complimented his cheerful personality. Our last face-to-face interaction with Ronnie was at a Langston High School Reunion a few years ago, where we reflected fondly on our years in high school. During our conversation, we rekindled our friendship and shared recollections about our youth. One fond reminiscence was the daily after school football game, which the neighborhood boys played on Boone Street, in front of Ronnie’s house. Fletcher Birchette fittingly named our group of players, “The Boon Street Bombers.”

We will deeply miss our friend and classmate. Our heartfelt sympathy and love are extended to the McAdams family during this time of heartache.

With Prayers & Blessings,

Nancy & Norman Howard

Ronnie and I became closer once I became an adult. I always enjoyed spending time catching up with him trading stories about our families. No matter how long it had been since we last talked, it was always fun and easy talking with him, never awkward. He will truly be missed.
