“ William has always been very special to my heart ever since my niece, Cory met him. When he retired from the Navy, he came to Connecticut to find a job and get ready for Cory and the girls to move to Connecticut. He stayed with me and my significant other at the time, Richard. He was such a big help to me. All I had to do was work and cook. William did everything else. I did not have to clean, dust, mop floors, wash clothes the entire time he was with us. He did not have to do any of it but that is the kind, gentle man he was. We loved having him with us. After Cory and the girls moved to Connecticut and they got their own place I would call and invite them to dinner all the time. William loved when I would do that. Sometimes, I would open a cookbook and point to a recipe and that is what I would make because I love trying new recipes and William loved eating new recipes. I remember going to Kings Dominion in Virginia. We were on a ride that was a big pirate ship. It started rocking back and forth, then it turned all the way round. It spun around several times. William laughed so hard sitting across from Cory and I, watching our faces. I will miss him forever.
